

Master of Fine Arts in Creative Writing

Be mentored and challenged by teachers who share your passion for literary art. In Lesley's top-ranked low-residency program, you'll realize your aesthetic aspirations in the company of committed authors who, like you, are deeply engaged in their craft and readying their work for publication.

Delve deep into your genre.

Our MFA Program in Creative Writing offers six concentrations: Fiction, Nonfiction, Poetry, Writing for Stage and Screen, Writing for Young People, and Graphic Novels and Comics.

Immerse yourself in a world literary capital.

You'll spend nine days twice a year on our campus in the heart of Cambridge, Massachusetts, attending seminars, workshops, readings, receptions, and publishing-related events.

Craft your own course.

With your faculty mentor, you'll design a personalized course of study that becomes the framework for your semester's creative and critical writing. Throughout the semester, your mentor will offer feedback and help foster your growth as a writer.

Explore new approaches.

Our celebrated Interdisciplinary Studies component will nourish your writing and expand the breadth of your experience as a working artist.
