LESLEY UNIVERSITY’S MASTER of FINE ARTS in Creative Writing

Writing is the labor that nourishes you. Crafting sentences, shaping phrases, revising and refining language for your imagined audience—these efforts keep you up at night, or wake you at dawn. In our top-ranked low-residency MFA program, you will be mentored and challenged by teaching writers who share your passion for literary art. At Lesley, you’ll realize your aesthetic aspirations in the company of committed authors who, like you, are deeply engaged in their craft and readying their work for publication.

Lesley University’s MFA Program in Creative Writing offers five concentrations: Fiction, Nonfiction, Poetry, Writing for Stage and Screen, and Writing for Young People. In our low-residency format, you’ll spend nine intensive days twice a year on our campus in the heart of literary Cambridge, Massachusetts, attending craft seminars, workshops, readings, receptions, and publishing-related events. With your faculty mentor, you’ll design a personalized course of study that becomes the framework for your semester’s creative and critical writing. Through the ensuing lively online exchange, your mentor will offer feedback and help foster your growth as a writer. In addition, our celebrated Interdisciplinary Studies component will nourish your writing and expand the breadth of your experience as a working artist.

The strength of Lesley’s program lies in its community: fellow writers with whom you’ll develop lifelong aesthetic and professional relationships, and faculty dedicated to nurturing your literary promise while producing their own award-winning works.
