

LIVINGSTON PRESS

The University of West Alabama

livingstonpress.uwa.edu

UWA
The UNIVERSITY of
WEST ALABAMA

The Livingston Press is a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization located within The University of West Alabama. Its mission is to promote literature, to serve the community, and to provide hands-on experience to University students.

UWA
The UNIVERSITY of
WEST ALABAMA

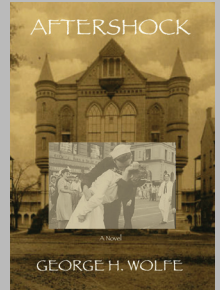

AFTERSHOCK

GEORGE H. WOLFE

After “The Good War,” years of peace pervaded the U.S. - except for the G.I. Bill and shell-shocked soldiers, Brown v Board of Education, and Rosie Riveter. This novel examines changes and horrors facing men and women returning from World War II.

278 pages, novel, $19.95 paper, July

ISBN 978-1-60489-313-7

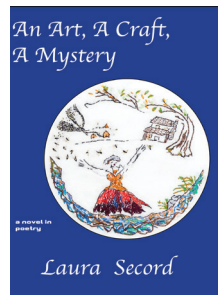

An Art, A Craft, A Mystery

LAURA SECORD

Lydea Gilbert and Katherine Harrison, historical women of intuitive genius and healing powers, who lived in a Puritan culture, where women’s work was suspect.

176 pages, novel-in-verse, $18.95 paper, February

ISBN 978-1-60489-303-8

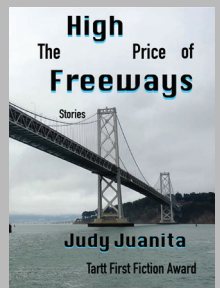

The High Price of Freeways

JUDY JUANITA

With aplomb and humor and steady eye, this collection looks at the Black experience in Oakland, from the founding of the Black Panthers to present day.

184 pages, stories, $18.95 paper, July

ISBN 978-1-60489-318-2

TART
AWARD
CO-WINNER

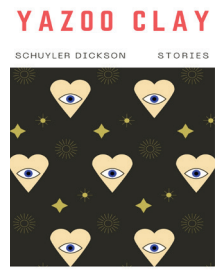

YAZOO CLAY

SCHUYLER DICKSON

Deep South stories that are character driven, often humorous, often thought-provoking, and at the same time, often daring in their form.

238 pages, stories, $19.95 paper, July

ISBN 978-1-60489-321-2

TART
AWARD
CO-WINNER

Zero to Ten: Nursing on the Floor

PATRICIA TAYLOR

What’s your pain, from zero to ten? How fast can you work the floor, from zero to ten? How soon will you have burnout, from zero to ten? Forty years of nursing inspire these stories.

222 pages, stories, $19.95 paper, July

ISBN 978-1-60489-309-0

