What's open and when

Literary Journal (The Main Street Rag)

We read poetry and prose year-round (until our backlog exceed 9 months/3 issues).

Art/photography, reviews, and interviews should query to editor@mainstreetrag.com

Books

Poetry: We consider book & chapbook manuscripts year-round

Prose: We have a limited submission period for prose manuscripts (May 1-June 15). That would include the following: novellas, novels, and short story collections. We also consider essay and memoirs during this time, but no not accept or publish many of either. Details online.

Anthologies: We're always open to editor-types proposing projects that they are willing to lead if we promote and publish. Proposals should be submitted to editor@mainstreetrag.com

Guideline details for all of the above can be found on our website: <https://www.mainstreetrag.com/submission-guidelines/>

Most of our submissions are handled through Submittable. If something doesn't appear, it's usually because we are backlogged in that genre and not currently reading. (Or maybe we're on vacation.)

If you feel adventurous and want to see who/what we have published over the years (26 and counting, BTW), there are over 700 titles available on the Main Street Rag Online Bookstore. Feel free to browse:
